Council chairman airs frustration

Federal funds meet gives city no help

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald City Editor

A meeting to familiarize local elected officials with various federal funding programs told Washington C.H. city officials little they hadn't already known—few programs are available to the city.

The meeting, which was held in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds Monday afternoon, was conducted by representatives of Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes' clearinghouse staff. Also on hand at the meeting were officials from several state departments.

Nearly 40 local government officials attended the meeting including elected officials from Highland and Clark counties as well as Fayette County. The local officials were asked to pose questions on federal funding.

The first to question the panel was Washington C.H. City Council Chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough. She asked what federal help would be available for a number of city projects presently being considered.

The answers ran from "We're bone dry" to "I can't think of any. . ."

After hearing the answers, Mrs. McCullough indicated that she was becoming frustrated with federal funding programs.

"For heaven's sakes, we have got nothing (federal help). We're either too small or too large," she said referring to population requirements for many federal programs.

Mrs. McCullough had questioned the panel of government officials about four specific city projects—the sewer system improvement, street repair after the harsh winter, the relocation of a new city building, and a dormant railroad spur behind the city's industrial park.

Mrs. McCullough first elaborated on the multi-million dollar city sewer improvement project. She pointed out that although the federal government is providing 75 per cent of the project's cost, city residents must pay 25 per cent.

She noted that the city's share would "probably run from six to nine million dollars." She said that amount of money was a large burden for 14,000 people to bear.

Mrs. McCullough said she was thankful for the 75 per cent funding the city was receiving, but additional help would be appreciated, especially since the sewer improvement project was mandated by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Nancy Hippert, a representative from Gov. Rhodes' office and the moderator of the 90-minute meeting, conceded that Mrs. McCullough had asked some tough questions, and that there were few positive answers.

She said that since the city of Washington C.H. had a population in excess of 10,000 no Farmers Home Administration funds would be available. She felt HUD (the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development) grants would be an alternative.

However, HUD grants are allocated on the basis of how much they aid low and moderate income families. Ms. Hippert suggested the city emphasize on grant or loan applications that the program can aid low or middle income families.

Mrs. McCullough had pointed out that the city approached HUD for federal help on the sewer project but HUD offered little encouragement.

The City Council chairman did say she was thankful the meeting was held to review the possible federal grant programs available to local governments. She said that knowing that someone was listening to problems lessened the burden.

One member of the panel mentioned that there was a "rumor" circulating which carries a glimmer of hope for the city of Washington C.H.

The rumor is that the Farmers Home Administration may change its population requirement for the allocation of grants and loans. Presently, only communities with population of less than 10,000 are eligible. The rumored change would increase the population cutoff to 20,000 which would include Washington C.H.

However, until such rumors become fact, it appears the city will have to make do with the money on hand.

Coffee Break . . .

MUNICIPAL, village and township candidates are reminded that 4 p.m. Wednesday is the deadline for filing candidacy petitions with the Fayette County Board of Elections for the Nov. 8 general election. . .

Candidates for seats on the Fayette County and Washington C.H. boards of education have until Aug. 25. . .

FUNDS ARE currently available locally for occupational training under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program. . .

Residents of Fayette and adjacent counties can apply at the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services office, 7 Fayette Center. . .

To be eligible, applicants must be economically disadvantaged (people with low income in relation to family size), and be unemployed or underemployed. . .

Training in such occupations as accounting, computer operation, engineering, drafting, auto mechanics, welding and clerical work along with others is available under the CETA program to those who qualify. . .

Kenneth Sharp, of the employment service's central office, will be in Washington C.H. from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 16 to assist the local office in interviewing interested persons, although applications for training may be submitted anytime during regular office hours. . .

There are also CETA funds available for on-the-job training with both private and public employers. . . Under this program, employers who hire economically disadvantaged applicants and train them in a skill are reimbursed part of the training cost. . . Employers who wish to participate in this program can obtain further information by contacting the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services office or by calling 335-4830.

Exact answers loom months away

Various questions fielded on senior citizens center

An inquisitive group of elderly residents attended a public hearing Tuesday morning at St. Andrews Episcopal Church to gether information on a proposed Fayette County senior citizens center.

The public meeting was the second of two hearings on the which were required before the county could apply for a federal grant for the project.

Doug Weatherby, the consulting architect for the proposed center, conducted the meeting and presented slides of proposed senior citizens centers in Pickaway and Perry counties.

The slide presentation raised a number of questions from area residents in attendance. They asked about building materials and floor layouts on the proposed sites in the other counties.

However, it will be several months before such questions on the Fayette County center can be answered. No design plans will be formulated by Weatherby until word on the approval or disapproval of the federal grant is received.

Weatherby said the application for the federal grant through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) can not be made until November. Then, several months will pass before the fate of the grant application is learned.

If the HUD block grant, which will provide 100 per cent funding of the proposed center on a 3.6-acre tract of land on S. Elm St., receives initial approval early next year, Weatherby will begin making architectural drawings.

Until that time, the county must decide how much money to request. HUD will fund such projects up to $500,000. The Fayette County Board of Commissioners is hoping to receive at least $400,000 for the project.

HUD grants are passed out according to a point-ranking system. Feasibility and need as well as possible community improvements are weighed by HUD officials and points are given on that basis.

"It is sort of like playing a game. You have to obtain the highest score or points," Weatherby told those in attendance at Tuesday morning's meeting.

A major point-producing aspect of such a project is how much it will assist low and moderate income families and housing stock.

Because of this aspect, the S. Elm Street location was selected as the senior citizen center site. The neighborhood surrounding the 3.6-acre tract is one of the most "depressed" in the city, according to Weatherby.

Some criticism of that location has been lodged by area residents. The proposed center would be near the Washington C.H. sewage disposal plant and across the street from a cemetery.

However, Weatherby said the project would receive more HUD points by being located in a depressed section of the city, and it would have a better chance of receiving funds.

If the HUD block grant is approved for the project, the funds will be used to reimburse the Fayette County Commission on Aging for the purchase of the 3.6-acre site and to build the center.

Carter may fight solons again

Water projects may still die

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President Carter may fight again with Congress over 10 water projects he wanted killed, an administration official says.

"I wouldn't be surprised if you haven't heard the last of water projects, even for this year," said the official, a presidential aide who declined to be identified.

The aide left open the possibility that Carter might send Congress what is called a rescission and deferral message, in which the President could list congressionally-approved spending he wants either to delay or delete from the budget.

The move would force Congress to vote again on any projects Carter included in the message.

The aide declined to elaborate on Carter's plans, other than to say preparations will have to be made if the President decides to go ahead with any further moves against the controversial projects.

The President, Mrs. Carter and daughter Amy spent their fifth day vacationing today in their south Georgia hometown. The visit, Carter's third since taking office, has been a mixture of work and play.

The Carters were expected to return to Washington on Wednesday.

After a morning visit with brother Billy at the family's peanut warehouse Monday, the President:

—Disclosed that the Palestinians have sent indirect word that they might adopt a United Nations resolution which recognizes Israel and its right to exist permanently and in peace with secure borders.

"If the Palestinians will recognize the applicability of the United Nations Resolution 242," Carter said, "then it will open up a new opportunity for us to start discussions with them and also open up an avenue that they might participate in the Geneva conference."

—Signed a $10-billion public works bill that includes the 10 water projects he wanted deleted. Carter succeeded in getting another nine cut out of the measure and four others modified.

Carter called that "a precedent-setting first step in curbing spending on unnecessary, expensive and environmentally damaging construction projects."

—Signed a clean-air bill he called "sound and comprehensive," which gives Detroit a new delay in meeting tough new automobile exhaust standards. Automakers said the decision is necessary to begin building 1978-model cars.

The law puts off the tougher standards until 1980-model cars. Under present law, they would take effect on 1978 models, to begin rolling off production lines this month. The new law also gives dirty-air cities up to 10 years more to meet some standards.

—Rode with Billy in a four-wheel drive vehicle over dirt roads to one of the family's peanut fields, inspected the crop and said, "We think it might be saved" thanks to recent rain. But the corn crop, the President said, was lost.

Fire center sees critical fight

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The room has a panoramic view of the southern Idaho desert, but no one has time to enjoy it. Technicians scurry from radio consoles to maps of the western United States marked with big red X's.

Each X represents a forest fire. This is the "war room" of the Boise Interagency Fire Center, which is coordinating a battle against flames that have consumed nearly 2 million acres in seven states.

Near the maps, each fire and its size is posted. On a large board nearby, the location of fire fighting aircraft is plotted. Voices are heard checking the location of men and equipment.

Spread over desks are situation reports, cold cups of coffee and half-smoked cigarettes.

Tension fills the room. The fire situation remains critical, and the long hours and hard work are beginning to show on the faces of crews who staff the centers 24 hours a day. Some have been on duty almost constantly since last Thursday, when a special fire emergency plan was put into effect.

The fire center is a cooperative effort of five federal agencies — the U.S. Forest Service, the Bureau of Land Management, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the National Park Service and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Through it, men and equipment are routed to fight fires in California, Oregon, Washington, Alaska, Colorado, Utah and Arizona.

"This is the most central location for large forest fire logistical supply, manpower and equipment to the western United States. This is where the largest forest fires occur and where the need is the greatest," said the center's director, R.L. Bjornsen.

On Monday, more than 1,000 experienced firefighters were either waiting at Boise or en route to the center for dispatching to other western points, said Arnold Hartigan, a fire information officer. Since Thursday, he said, nearly 2,000 men had been dispatched through the center.

After the crews arrive at the center, they usually rest for 24 hours, receive training in the use of protective fire suits, then are airlifted to areas where more crews are needed.

Crews from the East and Southeast have been summoned to augment the weary local firefighters, stretched thin as the blaze continues to spread.

Several crews arrived early Monday morning from Knoxville, Tenn., and spent most of the day relaxing around the center, waiting for orders to head for a fire.

Arthur Bradley of Laurel, Miss., said this was the seventh time he had flown west to fight fires. "I've fought fires in Montana, then in New Mexico . . . and last year we were in Virginia, Kentucky, then on that big one up in Michigan," he said.

The mess hall was full Monday as crews flown in the night before ate lunch and waited for the call to move out. They had come not only from Mississippi, but from national forest and Job Corps crews in North Carolina and Virginia, and from state divisions of forestry in Tennessee and Pennsylvania.

Property burns as Dayton's firemen picket blocks away

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Fires broke out in two abandoned apartment houses today and spread to at least one occupied dwelling while striking firemen picketed three blocks away and refused to help douse the flames.

The first blaze, which gutted the apartment building, also severely damaged an adjacent two-story frame house occupied by two families. No injuries were reported. Firemen from the neighboring community of Madison Township responded to a call for help but were too late to keep the house from being engulfed.

The second fire was burning uncontrolled, and residents of nearby homes were trying to remove their belongings for fear it would spread.

An occupant of the frame house, Bob Jackson, said Dayton firemen chopped a hole in the wall, then told residents they would have to fight the fire themselves.

More than 370 Dayton firemen said when they walked off the job Monday that they would respond only in life-or-death situations. Their action left this city of 241,000 without fire protection for the first time in history and with limited ambulance service.

Some policemen were expected to stay off the job today in support of the strike in sympathy with demands by Fire Fighters Local 136 for higher wages and a shorter work week.

The added prospect of diminished police protection had city officials, businesses and residents preparing for possible duty as supplemental safety forces.

Negotiators met until early today trying unsuccessfully to rewrite a contract for firemen. Their contract expired Feb. 28.

Montgomery County Common Pleas Court Judge William Wolff Jr. ordered the firemen back to their posts six hours after their work stoppage began, but none did so since service of the judge's order had hardly begun.

Key issues in the strike are wages and working hours. Novice firefighters start at $12,043 a year, and the union is seeking a 6 per cent increase. The city has offered a 2.65 per cent wage increase. Firefighters also want their work week reduced from 52 to 48 hours.

City Manager James Alloway, who called the strike "unconscionable" because half the firemen live outside the city, said the city cannot afford the $6.25 million it would cost to hire extra firemen over the next five years to reduce the work week.

Alloway indicated he would not agree to the union demands, even though firemen and other city officials say the city is without adequate fire protection. Fire Capt. Paul Hemminger said, "I've been assured by the city manager and chief that they have a (fire) contingency plan, but I'll be damned if I've got a glimmer of what that plan is."

Meanwhile, suburban fire fighting companies have been told to stand by to assist Dayton's remaining fire fighting force, and private ambulance companies were being sent to emergencies usually covered by firemen.

Voter registration 'tip' saves drive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If Ohioans get a chance to vote this November on whether they can register and cast ballots on the same day, they will have an anonymous tipster to thank.

The Ohioans for Preservation of Honest Elections (OPHE) received an important tip Monday as they were gathering up boxes of petitions bearing about 400,000 signatures.

Those signing the documents claim they want to vote Nov. 8 on a constitutional amendment that would forbid same-day voter registration.

The amendment would instead require all voters to register at least 30 days before an election and also would require registered voters who have not gone to the polls in four years to re-register.

The move is in response to a law passed by the Democrat majority in the legislature which allows same-day registration as well as permanent voter status.

The OPHE had planned to file the petitions with Republican Secretary of State Ted W. Brown this afternoon—right on the deadline. But a phone call from Morgan County told the group that a retired teacher filed a suit in the county's Common Pleas Court asking the judge to forbid the petitions' filing.

Judge Forrest MacDonald issued a 14-day temporary restraining order against the group filing the petitions and against Brown accepting them.

Brown said Monday he did not receive the order until after 4 p.m. and assumes it does not apply to the petitions filed before that time. OPHE officials agreed, claiming extra safety in that they filed the petitions about 20 minutes before MacDonald's order became official.

The OPHE needed, according to Ohio's law regarding constitutional amendments, 307,901 signatures to get the matter on the ballot. If the signatures filed with Brown Monday are certified by local boards of election, the issue might be before the voters Nov. 8, assuming no further court challenges.

MacDonald also has issued an order forbidding the group from circulating the petitions in his county. The 5th District Court of Appeals last week struck down that order only to see MacDonald uphold on appeal before the Ohio Supreme Court.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Emmett Arn

GREENFIELD — Mrs. Sylvia Arn, 74, of 7303 Ohio 753-SE, near Good Hope, died at 11:30 a.m. Monday in her residence following a lingering illness. Born in Fayette County, Mrs. Arn is survived by her husband, Emmett Arn, whom she married Oct. 11, 1933, and a brother, Wayne Scott, of Good Hope.

Pallbearers for the burial in the New Holland Cemetery were Roger Hecox, James Brown, Harold Brown, Clarence Brown Jr., Virgil Dinkler, and Jay Jobe.

Leg hold trap petitions filed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A statewide group seeking to ban the use of leg hold traps in Ohio filed 401,728 signatures today to place its proposal on Ohio's Nov. 8 election ballot.

Linda Foor, of the Ohio Committee for Humane Trapping, said the signatures were obtained in 63 counties. The petitions were filed with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to meet today's deadline for November ballot issues.

Miners return in southern Ohio

By The Associated Press
Some 2,100 miners have returned to work at three Southern Ohio coal mines in Meigs and Vinton counties and the Sunny Hill Mine in Perry County.

The action Monday brought peace to the southeastern Ohio coal fields for the first time in weeks. The four mines were closed by pickets protesting cutbacks in the union's health benefits program.

Thank You .....

I would like to thank all the staff at Fayette County Memorial Hospital for the excellent care I received during my recent illness. Also, a heartfelt thanks of appreciation to my neighbors, friends and family for their concern.

Sincerely,
Nelson Justice, Sr.

Vance winds up Mideast work

TAIF, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, armed with word of possible Palestinian concessions, heads for Israel today and what could be the climax of his current six-nation Middle East peace mission.

Though the Israeli government declined official comment, sources close to it suggested that the reports of Palestinian willingness to recognize Israel's right to exist may be nothing more than a "small trick."

Vance was scheduled to hold crucial discussions with Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, who reiterated Monday that Israel would not negotiate with the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), which he called an "organization of genocidists."

Begin's remarks came before President Carter and other U.S. officials disclosed the apparent new Palestinian overture.

Saudi Foreign Minister Saud al Faisal told Vance of an imminent change in the PLO position on Israel at their meeting Monday in Taif, the Saudi summer capital.

In Plains, Ga., President Carter told reporters Monday that the PLO "may adopt U.N. Resolution 242 which does recognize Israel's right to exist securely and in peace, with secure borders."

In turn, the United States would support the PLO's participation in Geneva Mideast peace talks and drop a demand that the guerrilla group change the provision of its covenant calling for Israel's destruction, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter told reporters here.

"As far as the secretary is concerned the acceptance of U.N. Resolution 242 would accomplish the same purpose as changing the covenant," Vance's spokesman said of the shift in U.S. policy.

With U.S. backing, the Israelis have refused to deal with the PLO as long as it advocates annihilation of the Jewish state.

Acceptance by the PLO of the 1967

Security Council resolution, which could remove a major roadblock to reconvening the Geneva peace conference, may be carried out at a meeting of the PLO's central council next week in Damascus, Syria, U.S. officials said.

After the latest developments were disclosed, Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy sent an urgent invitation to PLO chief Yasir Arafat to confer with Egyptian officials in Cairo, an Egyptian newspaper reported today.

Sources close to the Israeli government said Monday the reported PLO maneuvering might be a "small trick" by which the group would give the impression of moderation while still refusing explicitly — by changing its covenant — to accept Israel's right to exist.

Even if the PLO accepts Resolution 242, Israel could still bar the guerrilla group from participating in peace talks. According to the original invitations to the 1973 Geneva conference, each participant must be acceptable to all others.

Tornado novel brings 'injury'

URBANA, Ohio (AP) — Another spinoff from the Xenia tornado of more than three years ago is Keith Zerkle's swollen index finger.

It came from writing a novel about tornadoes, entitled "Twister Man," Ashley Publishing Co., New York, has accepted the young author' first effort and Zerkle expects it to be published by the end of the year.

"Twister Man" was spawned on the dairy farm near Urbana where Zerkle, 27, lives with his parents. He wrote it in

Strict rules stopping many from seeking fuel bill help

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — State officials disbursing a $13.3 million fund to help Ohio's poor and elderly overcome the hardship of last winter's heating bills admit that strict eligibility rules are keeping many needy persons from qualifying for grants.

Ohioans have until Friday to apply for financial aid from a special federal program for those whose finances are still suffering from the high fuel costs of the winter. But not all needy persons will qualify.

Viola, for example, a 93-year-old Allen County resident living on a $177-per-month in Social Security, had winter heating bills as high as $77 per month. She always managed to pay those bills on time, but her application is one of thousands that has been turned down under terms of the Special Crisis Intervention Program.

Allen County welfare director Neal Sprang said the woman, like many other Ohioans, was unable to prove that payments of winter utility bills put her in "dire financial need."

The government's definition of dire need requires the person be in danger of having utilities shut off, be in need of food or medicine, or be in danger of eviction.

While the maximum payment is $250, those who sacrificed to pay heating bills and who are now suffering other hardships can collect up to $50.

"We may not reach as many people as intended, especially those like Viola with the integrity and honesty to pay their bills," said Sprang.

"They can't prove dire financial need at this time, even though they suffered a hardship this winter," he said.

The view was shared by Jean Adkins, program planner for the state department of public welfare, which is administering the program for the federal Economic and Community Development branch of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"The program signed into law in early May has come too far after the need," said Ms. Adkins, who prefers that designation.

"Most have solved their bill paying problems. We have had people takeout loans and we can't say they are in dire financial need, as a result," she said. The welfare department is "trying to be as lenient as possible" she added.

Prison conditions violating rights of 15 women inmates

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The condition of the cells in the Ohio Penitentiary where 15 women inmates are incarcerated violates their constitutional rights, according to the American Civil Liberties Union. A lawsuit which asks to have the women moved, filed by the ACLU of Ohio and the Ohio State Legal Services Association, was assigned Monday to U.S. District Court Judge Joseph P. Kinneary. A hearing date has not been set.

The inmates are from the Marysville Reformatory for Women. They were transferred to the penitentiary for disciplinary reasons.

The suit charges the cells at the Ohio Correctional, Medical and Reception Center here, known simply as the Ohio Penitentiary, have poor ventilation, are filthy and infested with vermin. It claimed the women have no hot water, that they sleep on filthy mattresses and have no privacy because of supervision by male guards.

But Marysville Warden Dorothy Arn says the cells were cleaned and painted and the plumbing was working before the women were transferred. She said the mattresses either are new or freshly cleaned.

There is no hot water in the individual cells, but the women are allowed hot showers outside their cells twice weekly, Mrs. Arn said.

She said two female guards and one male guard are on duty during the day, and one female and one male guard at night.

The women were among 20 inmates transferred to the prison following a July 6 disturbance at Marysville. The incident pitted club-swinging guards against table-leg-wielding inmates who tried to prevent the guards from breaking up a fight, Mrs. Arn said. There were no serious injuries, she said.

The women were taken to the penitentiary because there were not enough maximum security cells at Marysville to hold them, Mrs. Arn said.

Seven of the women have been returned to Marysville, she said.

But two others who were involved in separate fights at the women's prison have been transferred to the penitentiary.

The women are housed away from the male prisoners.

Defendants in the suit are Mrs. Arn; George Denton, director of the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction and Neal Kette, penitentiary suprintendent.

Terre Haute fire forces still out

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Terre Haute's 147 firemen remain on strike and Vigo Superior Court Judge Harold Bitzegaio is expected to rule today on Mayor William Brighton's request for a temporary court injunction to halt the strike which began early Sunday.

Monday night, negotiations between the firemen and city officials broke off when Brighton's administration refused to raise its proposed $350-a year, across-the-board raise.

Later, the firemen were ordered back to work in a statement signed by Brighton and members of the city council. Dismissal was threatened if the men don't report for their next shift.

Capital gains tax: Fair or not?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Among the items expected to be included in President Carter's tax package is one that in some instances would double the tax on long-term capital gains, a measure that some say will set off an explosion of controversy.

Don't bet on it. The President's feelings on the matter have been known for a long time, but so far the feelings of those likely to be affected haven't been ignited. If there's a fuse on this one it must be wet.

Nevertheless, the very notion of making capital gains less attractive is bound to have an impact on homeowners, investors, industry, the economy. Potentially, it is as controversial as any tax matter in several years.

In an attempt to make the tax code fairer and simpler, those behind the idea say that long-term capital gains, such as you would make from the sale of a house or stocks, should be taxed as ordinary income instead of at one-half that rate.

That undoubtedly would simplify the tax forms, which are made complex and longer by the need to account separately for capital gains. But whether they would then be fairer is another matter.

First off, some say the tax already is a tax on an illusion. That is, with inflation running 6 or 7 per cent on average for several years now, many so-called capital gains aren't real.

An individual who wishes to sell one $35,000 house and buy another of the same price, for example, might find he couldn't afford to do so. Assuming the house now owned was bought five years ago for $25,000, inflation had added $10,000, the homeowner would find himself after taxes with far less than $35,000, unless he managed to avail himself of a little known section of the tax code.

From one point of view, therefore, it would seem that the capital gains tax should be adjusted for inflation in order to end the practice of assessing taxes on unreal, paper profits. Instead, the assessment would be raised.

Other critics argue that capital gains are a special form of income, in which a greater degree of risk is assumed than is taken on by those with an assured income. A capital gains investor, it is pointed out, has a greater chance of losing.

But, it might be countered, the capital gainer stands to make an occasional killing and, if not that, then a fairly substantial reward. It's the old risk-reward ratio; as risk rises, so does the size of the potential reward.

Another argument for continuing the capital gains tax is that the country needs it. That is, new investments must be encouraged if the economy is to expand and make jobs available for a growing population.

The question probably isn't so much whether capital gains are desirable or undesirable, but why some of the most powerful financial entities in the land haven't spoken out yet, for or against.

That in itself has the ingredients of still another debate.

Stocks lose more ground

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lost more ground today after Monday's decline to a 19-month low in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The Dow average of 30 blue chips dropped more than 2 points in early trading.

Losers took a 3-2 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said fears of a tighter

Federal Reserve credit policy and rising interest rates were continuing to depress the market.

Today's early prices included Sears Roebuck, up 1/4 at 29 1/2; General Motors, down 1/4 at 66 1/2; Exxon, 1/4 lower at 51, and Hewlett-Packard, unchanged at 78 1/2.

On Monday the Dow fell 9.27 to 879.42, its lowest close since it finished at 877.83 on Jan. 5, 1976.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume slowed to 15.87 million shares, down from 19.94 million Friday and the lightest total since a 17.73 million-share day on May 27.

The NYSE's composite index fell .38 to 53.66.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .36 at 120.17.

Senate eyes own Korean bribe probe

CHICAGO (AP) — Two weeks after saying that no senator had taken cash payments or gifts from South Korean lobbyists, Sen. Adlai Stevenson III says the Senate Ethics Committee now is looking for a special counsel to head its investigation into the growing scandal.

The Illinois Democrat, chairman of the Ethics Committee, told reporters at the American Bar Association convention here on Monday that his panel probably will appoint a special counsel "within the next week or two."

"We are determined to get to the bottom of this matter," Stevenson said.

Most speculation about illegal acts by members of the Congress thus far has centered on the House, and its Ethics Committee recently named former Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski as its special counsel.

Two days ago, the Senate panel received information from the Justice Department on Korean gift-giving.

Stevenson refused comment when asked whether the appointment of a special prosecutor meant the Senate committee had discovered information pointing to illegal acts by senators.

But he said he no longer could repeat his statement that no senator was involved in the scandal.

The Justice Department is the third body investigating alleged influence buying in Congress, U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, also here for the ABA convention, told a news conference he has given some information to both the House and Senate committees, and indirectly confirmed that it included the names of some members of Congress.

College audits turn up losses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Audits of two Ohio colleges revealed cash shortages and fiscal irregularities, but no findings for recovery, Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said today.

Examiners at Cuyahoga Community College in Cleveland determined two cash shortages totaling $9,216, allegedly theft, Ferguson said.

At Ohio University, fiscal irregularities totaled $2,420 in unauthorized grants to ineligible students turned up in a July 1, 1975 to June 30, 1976 audit.

More women in business

One measure of how far we have to go before the goal of equality for women is realized can be found in these figures: women comprise 51.3 per cent of the United States population; women own only 4.6 per cent of the nation's businesses. It is good that the Small Business Administration is undertaking a nationwide program to do something about this imbalance.

Few would insist that women will not enjoy full equality until they own 51.3 per cent of the businesses — or even one-third of them, for that matter. Women continue to be central to home and family, in spite of "liberation". It may well be, too, that women's greatest opportunities for self-fulfillment and realization of their potential lie elsewhere than in business.

The discrepancy between those percentage figures in the first paragraph above is, however, far too great to be shrugged off. Many women evidently have the capacity to run business enterprises, and the desire to do so. The chance to take a crack at it should not be denied them — certainly not because of traditional views as to women's proper role in society.

The new SBA effort announced at the White House by presidential assistant Midge Costanza should be of considerable help. Conferences and seminars to inform women about means of getting into business — and about SBA programs to make it easier — will be held throughout the country. The agency also promises to pay more attention to women's business loan needs. This will be a good start at opening up more opportunities for women to make the switch from employee to employer status.

Banking revolution in New England

New England, home of the proper Bostonian, is supposed to be the stodgy part of the country. And in some respects, notably in its attitude towards drilling for oil and gas off its coasts, the stereotype is true.

Curiously enough, however, Massachusetts happens to be leading a revolution in banking practice that has spread to all six of the New England States, and if Federal Reserve boss Arthur Burns has his way with Congress, the innovation, which consists of offering five per cent interest on checking accounts, will soon be extended all the way to Alaska and Hawaii.

The revolution has all but destroyed the distinction in New England between the "thrift institution" (i.e., the savings bank) and the ordinary commercial bank. The change in New England began when a savings bank in Worcester, fighting for deposits, got a Congressional authorization to pay five per cent interest on checking accounts as compared to five-and-a-quarter per cent on its orthodox savings deposits.

Naturally, this put the commercial banks at a tremendous disadvantage in the competition for funds. So they, in turn, started what they call NOW accounts (an acronym for negotiable order of withdrawal), paying five per cent on demand deposits beyond a certain minimum.

The revolution has had a most startling effect. The local banks are forbidden by law to advertise the fact that the lines between thrift and commercial institutions have become scrambled in New England, but the word has been getting around. The First National Bank of Boston, which resisted the NOW revolution at the outset, was finally, in December of 1975, forced to go along with the new order. What happened thereafter was a revolution as well as a revolution.

The First National now gets 25 per cent of its deposits from outside the state. People from 48 states and 68 foreign countries have transferred their checking accounts to Boston. A fairly large percentage of the depositors are young to middle-age executives, about 30 to 45 years of age. The average NOW account is six times greater than the minimum deposit requirement of $400.

For the state of Massachusetts as a whole, 1.2 million families out of a total of 3 million households have flocked to NOW account banks without worrying their heads about the ancient distinction between the commercial bank and the savings institution.

It is the computer, of course, that makes the scrambling of the lines possible by eliminating all that clerical work that would have rendered it impossible for the commercial banks to pay interest on small demand deposit funds without losing money. A lot of the smaller commercial banks throughout the country will resist the passage of a bill introduced into Congress by Sen. Thomas McIntyre (D-N.M.) to extend the New England revolution to the entire country.

But if depositors from beyond the Hudson continue to funnel their money into Boston or Providence or Hartford to earn five per cent on idle demand deposits, commercial banks everywhere will have to jump on the bandwagon along with the savings banks who want demand deposit money, too.

Way back in the 1930s the government looked askance at banks that were filling double functions. The big abuse of that period was the investment affiliate which used "other people's money" (Mr. Justice Louis Brandeis' phrase) to make profits for insiders. But now the consumer (i.e., the average family with money to save) is in a competitive position that means his money will be treated with respect.

So we have the big blurring of the functional lines when it comes to handling money. Sears Roebuck and Co. goes into the insurance business. American Express is a banker. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., a brokerage company, goes into the publishing business with a weekly stock option guide called Options Alert. This is as if Dow Jones, publishers of Barron's Financial Weekly, were to go into banking.

Well, money is money, and as long as the customer is protected in his profits it doesn't really matter who handles it. But who would expect to see another revolution start in staid New England?

"I DON'T KNOW IF THIS IS A WATER-GATE SEQUEL, BUT HE'S GOT A STAR STUDDED CAST."

U.S. meat exports outstrip imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. exporters shipped in the first five months of the year about $120 million more in livestock, meat and meat products abroad than was imported, the Agriculture Department reports.

Beef and veal exports rose by 10 per cent, USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service said, mostly because of larger sales to Japan.

Cattle exports, however, dropped 85 per cent below the May 1976 level because of curtailed shipments to the sluggish Canadian market.

Cattle imports, on the other hand, increased by 11 per cent, to 109,891 head, mostly because the Canadian drought has caused continued liquidations of herds by sales southward.

A cause of substantial damage to the domestic cattle industry.

Such a finding could prompt recommendations for quotas and other curbs, which President Carter could accept or reject.

The ITC report is due Sept. 17.

The recent USDA report on the balance of livestock and meat trade showed imports in May were down 3 per cent from a year earlier, to $175.7 million worth, while exports dropped only 1 per cent, to $180.9 million.

On the import side for the month, beef and veal were down 16 per cent and canned corn beef, 27 per cent. Fresh, chilled and frozen beef and veal imports, at 46,000 tons, were down 18 per cent, but shipments of prepared or preserved beef other than canned corned beef were up 22 per cent.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.
WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 10

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
Do not be impulsive, but neither hold off action because of uncertainty over your abilities. Curb doubts and fears. You DO have ability: Back it with self-confidence.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
You may be tempted to take an unexpected fling in money matters and, if your judgment is as good as it usually is, it should pay off.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Inspiration at a peak. A unique idea you have can be carried off with just the right touch of ingenuity to make it work.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Keep your head and maintain the pace that's best for you. Don't let others distract you with ideas of doubtful worth especially if they clash with your innate conservatism.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Strong indication of gain through past efforts. A good period, too, for launching new enterprises. Study all suggestions carefully, however.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Stellar aspects indicate new activities, some reconstruction in your life, but you could lose out on good opportunities if you are lethargic or indifferent — Both tendencies now.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Don't go off on the tangents that so often upset a well-running routine. Aim for accomplishments in which you can justifiably take pride.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Stellar influences somewhat restrictive where finances are concerned, so watch the budget. Avoid a tendency to overspend on luxuries.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
A good day for tackling important and controversial issues. In this connection, some information you receive in an unusual way should be carefully noted.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
A golden opportunity to put your unusual ideas across. They'll get a satisfactory hearing if presented logically.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Expect some complications due to a conflict of personalities. You can handle, however, with tact and a determination to preserve good will.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
If undecided or uncertain about accepting a financial proposition, it would be better to reject it. Your truly extraordinary intuition won't play you false.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Their farm not a vacation spot

DEAR ABBY: Since we moved to a farm, relatives and friends have come uninvited and unannounced. Some even come for the weekend, asking if they can leave their children with us for "a few weeks." (They say, "It will be a good learning experience for them.") Abby, don't people realize that a farm is not a vacation resort? There's work to be done daily, even if we don't punch a clock or report to a foreman. We like company, but we don't want them dropping in whenever they feel like it. Please print this, but don't tell where it came from.

NO GUTS
DEAR NO: People with no guts need to be protected from people with guts galore. I hope this letter helps, but don't count on it.

DEAR ABBY: My 17-year-old daughter recently brought home a swim suit she purchased. She tried it on for me and it looks very skimpy. Most of her rear is exposed to public view. She show me how the top can be removed to go topless, and says she may wear it that way sometimes. I told her that she might get arrested if she goes topless in public, but she says it is now legal for girls to go topless in Texas. Is that true?

MRS. C.
DEAR MRS. C.: My Texas legal experts inform me that females who go topless in public can be charged with indecent exposure and/or disorderly conduct.

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on the letter complaining because some perfectly able-bodied people use the parking area marked, "Reserved for the Handicapped." I have high blood pressure, diabetes, chronic bronchitis and a bad heart, and I am not supposed to walk great distances, so I used the convenient parking areas set aside for the handicapped. I no longer do so, however, because of the dirty looks I got from people who saw me parking there. Please tell your readers that not all handicapped people are on crutches and in wheelchairs. I may look healthy, but I am ...

HANDICAPPED TOO
DEAR HANDICAPPED: Go ahead and use those convenient spaces and ignore the dirty looks. God knows, and YOU know, you qualify, and those who don't know don't matter.

DEAR ABBY: Some Duluth, Minn., waitresses complain bitterly that Canadian tourists refuse to tip them! What say your Canadian readers deny or justify not tipping U.S. waitresses?

FATHER L. IN CLEVELAND
DEAR FATHER: I'm for letting my Canadian readers speak for themselves. Canadians?

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joe Wambaugh, the ex-police sergeant who created NBC's "Police Story," has quit as its consultant. His successor this season: Tom Reddin, ex-chief of Los Angeles' finest.

But it's not a new TV experience for Reddin, 65, who began as a cop pounding a skid row beat here in 1941, rose through the ranks and headed the LAPD for two years before retiring in 1969.

He says he worked as an adviser on Jack Webb's old "Dragnet" series while still serving in the stern, old-school administration of the police department's late Chief William Parker.

Reddin praises Webb's painstaking efforts back then to accurately depict police work. But of the two shows, he says he likes "Police Story" best.

This, he said, is "because 'Dragnet' would never put on anything that indicated a policeman had any kind of weakness or was truly human."

In contrast, he added, the newer series, which starts its fifth season on Sept. 27, is both "an accurate depiction of the job and shows that the people on the job have the same frailties as the rest of the population, that the policeman isn't any 'miracle person'."

What doesn't he like about the show?
"I really find it hard to be critical because it's the only one I regularly watch," he said. "I'm not offended that it shows policemen drink, have girl friends, that they sometimes get out of line on minor things... I know it happens."

"Having reviewed disciplinary reports for about 40 per cent of my total time as chief, I determined a long time ago there's nothing any policeman would do that would surprise me."

Reddin, after retiring, worked three years as a news anchor and commentator at KTLA-TV here, then ran for mayor, lost, and went into the private security business. He now owns his own security firm.

He was asked if "Police Story," which gets police cooperation when it seeks it, would have gotten such help in Chief Parker's time.

"Oh, no, I don't think so," said the ex-cop, born in New York City and raised in Colorado.

"Because in those days, I think some of the things the show does would have been viewed with a great deal of concern for showing that police are human, for not depicting them the goodie-two-shoes way."

Benefits overpaid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Bureau of Workers Compensation says that several million dollars in overpayments have been made to injured Ohio workers who qualified for Disabled Workers Relief Fund benefits. Some of the recipients collected payments based on false Social Security income statements, the bureau said Monday.
Partly because of federal privacy laws, verifying the Social Security income statements was not always possible, according to the bureau. The result was overpayment to an estimated 4,000 Ohioans or 30 per cent of recipients. In 271 cases examined, average overpayments were $2,600.
Benefits were given to injured workers whose payments, combined with Social Security income, did not meet state minimum income levels. Some overpayments resulted when payments continued to certain workers who became ineligible in 1975, the bureau added.

North Carolina apples make delicious desserts

The magnificent apple season begins each year in late August in the sun-bathed mountains of North Carolina with a harvest of renowned Red and Golden Delicious apples.

Crisp and juicy, these bright beauties are apt to be the freshest apples in town and represent a sound buy for consumers through October.

Although they're highly prized for eating out of hand, these North Carolina apples are good choices for cooking, too. They have a snappy texture and a refreshingly tart taste which makes them desirable in many recipes calling for apples.

Try them in Luscious Carolina Apple Layers, an impressive dessert. Baked pastry rounds are covered with a thin layer of maple-flavored whipped cream mixture and topped with poached apple slices. The rounds are stacked and topped with more cream and apples.

The dish, light and delicate in spite of its rich appearance, nicely contrasts the piquant apples with the sweet cream and flaky pastry. This dessert can be made in advance, and requires relatively easy preparation for such an elegant offering.

North Carolina Apple Salad is a refreshing luncheon dish, appropriate for company. This satisfying salad can be served as a side dish as well as the main course.

Wholesome North Carolina Delicious apples contain many valuable nutrients while being moderate in calories, according to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

Buy apples that are firm, bright and unbruised, and keep them in a fruit bowl or refrigerator.

LUSCIOUS CAROLINA APPLE LAYERS

Pastry Rounds:
3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 whole egg
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix flour, sugar and salt in bowl. Cut in butter with two knives or pastry blender. Lightly beat together whole egg, yolks and vanilla; add to dry ingredients and mix until dough holds together. Press into a ball and chill 1 hour. Divide dough into 7 equal parts. Roll out each less than ¼ inch thick on lightly floured board into a 7-inch round. Trim edges. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. Prick with fork; brush with reserved egg white. Bake in 425 degree F. oven 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on wire rack.

Apple filling:
7 large Red or Golden Delicious apples, pared, cored and sliced
2 cups boiling water
2 lemons, halved
2 cinnamon sticks
6 whole cloves
½ cup sugar
1½ cups heavy cream
2 tablespoons maple syrup
2 tablespoons ground nuts

In large skillet poach apple slices in boiling water with lemon, cinnamon, cloves and sugar until apples are tender. Drain well. Whip cream until soft peaks form, beat in maple syrup. Stir in nuts. To assemble: place a pastry circle on a large flat serving plate. Spread with thin layer of whipped cream mixture. Top cream with 12 to 14 apple slices. Add second pastry circle and repeat with remaining ingredients, ending with apple slices and a little whipped cream. Chill 1 hour or until ready to serve. If desired, serve with additional whipped cream.

Makes: 10 to 12 servings.

NORTH CAROLINA APPLE SALAD
3 Red or Golden Delicious apples, cored and cubed
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 cup seedless green grapes
2 ribs celery with leaves, chopped
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons milk
½ teaspoon salt
Lettuce leaves
1-3 cup broken walnuts

Sprinkle apples with lemon juice in bowl; stir in grapes and celery. Blend mayonnaise with milk; add to apple mixture with salt; mix well. Chill thoroughly. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves; sprinkle with walnuts.

Makes: 6 servings.

Cavern goes bats for movie

ACTRESS SUSAN SARANDON with fake bat in Luray Caverns, Virginia during filming of her latest movie.

When is a bat not really a bat? When it's rubber—as visitors to the Luray Caverns found out during the shooting of the film, The Other Side of Midnight.

The caverns have been bat-free for quite some time, after years of efforts by the management to please tourists who weren't "bats" about the flying rodents. Then 20th Century Fox executives, unable to find a suitable site in Greece to film the climax of their film, decided instead to head for the famed caverns in Virginia's Shenandoah Valley.

Luray's management was pleased, but faced a big problem, since one of the film's stars, Susan Sarandon, was supposed to shriek in fright as bats flew by her. With no real bats to be found, there was only one solution: use rubber bats for the long shots, then do closeups of the real creatures back in Hollywood.

Visitors during the shooting had the treat of watching Miss Sarandon, co-star John Beck, and the crew, since management decided that the year-round tourist attraction should not be closed down while the filming was going on. In fact, visitors were even given a fact sheet as they entered, so they'd know what was going on and who was who in the cast.

As viewers of the film can testify, the caverns look spectacular. That's why more than a half-million people visit Luray Caverns every year.

Excuse for poor diet is convenience

Nutrition for older people is a misunderstood subject. It is further complicated by changing lifestyles, failing health and limited incomes.

Many of the elderly in America consume the same number of calories as in their youth, but substitute too much bread and sweets for meat, milk, milk products, eggs, fruits and vegetables. This results in weight gain and an unhealthy diet. It has been shown that senility may be related to some extent to poor diet over a long term.

One of the excuses for poor diet is convenience: it's easier to buy a bakery product that's already prepared, or to cook the same thing day after day. Also, if one is alone, the social impetus to eating well is gone.

Fresh fruits and vegetables should not be overlooked as an easily-prepared source of vitamins and minerals. They offer tremendous variety, and can be bought in quantities to suit the smallest family. The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association recommends buying only what would be eaten within a week, for the fresher a commodity, the more nutritious it is.

With imagination, the good buy in season can be stretched through several different meals. For example, poach or bake apples for dessert or a snack; the next morning, eat one that's stuffed with granola. For a main dish, combine sliced apples with chopped onion and fresh lemon or orange juice in a skillet with chicken for the last twenty minutes it fries. Raw fruits and vegetables supply roughage necessary for the proper functioning of the digestive system. Just bite into a juicy apple; or for something different, core an apple, fill with a tablespoon of peanut butter, and eat.

The three R's of cooking work to retain both flavor and nutrients in fresh fruits and vegetables. Reduce time; reduce liquid; reduce surface area. Spinach can be eaten both raw or cooked. But don't cook all the goodness out of it. Wash it well, and using only the water still left on the leaves, cook it in a covered 10-inch skillet with a little butter or margarine and salt and pepper for three to five minutes. For a heartier dish, saute' sliced Polish sausage or luncheon meat first, and then cook the spinach with it. Or add eggs to sauteed spinach for a frittata, a flat Italian-style omelet.

Versatile fruits and vegetables have tastes to please everyone. And they can be prepared in an almost unlimited number of ways for any course of a meal. There are many factors influencing the food consumption of the old in America: ignorance of nutrition should not be one of them.

G.A.R. members meet

Mrs. Harry Bell and Mrs. Kenneth Bryan were hostesses to members of the Washington Court House Circle 25, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, at Staunton Church Fellowship Hall, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Leland Stevens, president, opened the meeting in ritualistic form. Mrs. Maurice L. Sollars, chaplain, gave the Devotions from The Living Bible, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. In the absence of Miss Helen M. Perrill, patriotic instructor, Mrs. Wilbur Morgan led the group in reading The American's Creed, and Articles of Faith.

Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse acted as pianist for the singing of "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "America", and for the marches. Miss Frances White acted as secretary and read the minutes, as Mrs. Walter L. Parrett suffered an injury when recently hit by a car. Mrs. Ralph K. Child, treasurer, gave her report.

Reports of various committees were made. Mrs. William W. Rogers, Mrs. Russell Lanman, Mrs. William Nathan Ervin, Mrs. Howard McNabb, Jr., and Mrs. J. Herbert Perrill were accepted into membership in the circle.

Miss Frances White told of the birthday party for her mother, Mrs. Viva White, and thanked the group for the many cards and visits. Miss Florence Hidy reported cards and flowers were sent to Mrs. Ralph Hays and Dr. Bernice O'Brian in Fayette Memorial Hospital. Cards were signed by the members to be sent to Mr. Hays, Dr. O'Brian, and Mrs. Essie Sturgeon. Mrs. Stevens reminded the members to send cards to Miss Mazie Rowe for her birthday, September 18th, when she will be 102 years old.

An inquiry was made as to where the book "Cyclone in Calico" could be purchased, as it is the story of Mary Ann Bickerdyke, a Civil War nurse. Mrs. Robert Edward Purtell was given the obligation and initiated into membership in the organization. The Floral Drill netted $4.40.

The hostesses seated their guests at one long table centered with lovely summer flowers from the gardens of Mrs. Bell. A bouquet of gladioli from Mrs. Heber Deer was much admired. Favors of magnetic colorful small caterpillars marked each place, the handiwork of Mrs. Bryan. Happy Birthday was sung to Mrs. S.J. Kennedy and Mrs. Gene H. Carman while at the table.

A refreshing dessert was served to guest Miss Sally Bryan, and members Mrs. Leland Stevens, Mrs. Millard H. Weidinger, Mrs. Heber Deer, Mrs. Maurice L. Sollars, Mrs. S.J. Kennedy, Mrs. Gene H. Carman, Mrs. Emmitt Toops, Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse, Miss Florence Hidy, Mrs. Donald Pemberton, Mrs. Wilbur Morgan, Mrs. Ralph K. Child, Miss Frances White, Mrs. R. Deane Powell, Mrs. John L. Sagar, Sr., Mrs. Walter L. Parrett, Mrs. R. Edward Purtell, Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Bryan. Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse won the door prize.

The September meeting will be held at Staunton Fellowship Hall, with Miss Florence Hidy, Mrs. Emmitt Toops and Mrs. R. Deane Powell, hostesses.

A suede jacket can be cleaned effectively if rubbed thoroughly with a mixture made of equal parts of fuller's earth and alum. When this is brushed off, the garment will look like new.

A takeoff on the popular Bourbon Balls.
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
2 tablespoons banana liqueur
½ cup finely crushed vanilla wafers
½ cup finely chopped toasted walnuts
Confectioners' sugar
Stir together the corn syrup and liqueur, then stir in the crumbs, walnuts and ½ cup confectioners' sugar. Shape ½ tablespoonfuls of the mixture into balls and roll in confectioners' sugar. (If mixture is too soft to shape add a little more of the crumbs and nuts; if too stiff, add a little more of the liqueur.) Serve shortly after making because the banana flavor evaporates. Makes 18 to 21.

APPLE SLAW
1-3rd cup mayonnaise-style salad dressing
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1 tablespoon bottled white horseradish
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
3 cups coarsely grated green cabbage
1 large red apple, unpeeled and diced (about 1¼ cups)
Paprika
Whisk together the salad dressing, vinegar, horseradish, salt and sugar. Stir in the cabbage and apple. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

If the Shoe Fits..

Do Children's Feet Grow Faster in Summer Than in Winter?

Yes, at Eastertime it is common to find that the feet of a child have grown only a half size since September, but at back-to-school time, the same child may need a size or a size-and-a-half larger shoe than was fitted five months before.

It is customary to blame the rapid growth on going barefoot, but the fact is that children who go barefoot most of the time (e.g. Hawaii) have very short, broad feet. The important thing to remember is that after infancy foot growth is quite unpredictable, so it is a very bad practice to buy shoes without bringing the child to the store to be fitted..

Dayton boy arrested on car theft charge

Fayette County sheriff's deputies arrested a 16-year-old Dayton youth early Tuesday morning on a charge of auto theft, according to Sheriff's Deputy William M. McKenzie.

McKenzie stated he was stopped by a truck driver around 4:15 a.m. along U.S. 35, near I-71 who told the deputy he had picked up a teenage boy after the youth had run a car into a ditch just inside the Greene County line. The driver reportedly told the youth where he could call for assistance.

The deputy said he located the teenager and after questioning him, placed him under arrest for the theft of a car allegedly stolen in Jamestown. McKenzie said he notified the Greene County Sheriff's Department of the arrest and they in turn called the Ohio Highway Patrol post in Xenia.

The youth was released to the custody of the highway patrol trooper.

Store window damaged

Washington C.H. police officers reported a plate glass window was cracked by a rock at the Lawson's Dairy Co. store, 1200 N. North St., sometime Sunday night.

A store employee, Beulah Wical, 439 N. Walnut St., opened the store about 7 a.m. Monday and discovered a 4-by-7-foot plate glass window had been broken according to the police department report. Police officers stated the rock, which caused an estimated $210 damage, did not penetrate the window.

In another destruction of property report which police officers listed as possibly accidental, Dave Ogan Jr. of Carroll Halliday, Inc., 907 Columbus Ave. stated someone fired a .22-caliber weapon at his car sometime during Saturday or Sunday night.

Ogan reported the incident to police officers Monday morning and stated his car had been parked at his residence. The bullet struck the vehicle's door damaging the chrome molding and the outside mirror, the report stated. Police officers believe the shot may have been fired from the vicinity of the Terrace Lounge construction site on Columbus Avenue.

Traffic Court

Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case levied suspended jail sentences and $50 fines plus costs on two persons convicted of traffic violations Monday.

Receiving a 10-day suspended sentence in the Fayette County jail was Kathy S. Moore, 18, of Octa. She was found guilty of driving without a driver's license. Miss Moore was arrested on the charge Sunday by Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

A local man, Rick R. Bryan, 21, of 529 Third St. received a five-day suspended sentence in the Washington C.H. city jail. Judge Case convicted him of driving while under suspension. Bryan was also arrested Sunday by Washington C.H. police officers.

The Municipal Court judge suspended both sentences on the condition the defendants do not violate any traffic laws for a period of one year.

Judge Case issued fines and received signed waivers in several other cases heard Monday.

Municipal Court

A Xenia woman, convicted of check fraud Monday, was sentenced to 10 days in the Fayette County jail by Judge John P. Case in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

However, Judge Case suspended the 10-day term issued against Mary Ann James, 32, of Xenia, providing she not violate any federal, state or municipal laws for one year. She was also fined $25 and costs.

Judge Case stated he suspended the sentence because the woman had already made restitution for a check she wrote last May 6 at the Buckeye Mart. She was arrested on the charge Sunday in Xenia by Washington C.H. police officers.

Two Springfield men were found guilty of disorderly conduct by intoxication during Monday's municipal court proceedings.

Fined $50 plus court costs were Danny Miller, 20, and Tommy L. West, 21, both of Springfield. The two men were arrested on the charges July 31 by Ohio Highway Patrol troopers when the driver of the car they were passengers in was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

B&W buyout still fought in court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A county judge has disallowed any immediate interference with the $585.6 million buyout effort by United Technologies Corp., of the Babcock & Wilcox Co.

Judge Clifford Rader of Franklin County Common Pleas Court declined Monday to suspend a June 3 ruling of the Ohio Division of Securities which held that United complied with Ohio securities laws.

Rader asked for further written arguments from B&W, United, and the state, which is defending the securities division, but set no deadline for them to be submitted. He said he will read approximately 2,500 pages of testimony from the securities hearing last spring before ruling.

He "guessed, with eyebrows raised in question," that he would rule in the case next month.

Rader said he found no unusual hardship for B&W on the basis of arguments by Atty. David S. Cupps.

Cupps had argued that the hardship to B&W was clear.

"The irreparable injury to shareholders is clearer still," Cupps said.

United Atty. James M. Tobin told Rader B&W did nothing to stop the United stock purchase offer for two months after appealing the securities division ruling.

"We made the offer," Tobin declared. "We will do nothing. The offer is out and if anything happens it will be some court ordering us to withdraw the offer."

Pallotine fight over

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's legal squabble with the Pallotine religious order is apparently over.

Pallotines, Inc., a Maryland-based fund-raising group, agreed Monday to make public its financial statements for the next two years dealing with proceeds from mail order solicitations. Further, the Pallotines also agreed to allow Atty. Gen. William J. Brown to examine solicitation materials before use in Ohio.

Brown sued the Pallotines in December 1976 alleging they gave less than eight cents from each solicited dollar to recipients indicated in solicitation materials.

"The organization has instituted new procedures which should increase the percentage of funds to be used for charitable purposes," said Brown in announcing settlement of the lawsuit.

Teater to speak to snowmobilers

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Robert W. Teater, Ohio Natural Resources director, will address the Aug. 9 annual meeting of the Northcentral States Boating and Snowmobile Law Administrators Association at Salt Fork State Park Lodge near here.

Other speakers during the four-day meeting, which opened Monday, include Rear Adm. David Lauth, chief of boating safety for the U.S. Coast Guard, and Rear Adm. Robert Scarborough, commander, Ninth Coast Guard District, Cleveland.

Power outage interrupts cable television service

Cable television service was interrupted Monday night by an electrical power failure.

Ken Arnold, of the Court Cable Co., 218 E. Court St., said cable television customers in the south, east and north section of Washington C.H. were affected by the temporary outage.

Arnold said the service outage was caused by an electrical power failure in the vicinity of S. North Street and E. Circle Avenue.

Although Arnold did not know what was responsible for the 9:15 p.m. power failure, he indicated it could have been the aftermath of the severe thunderstorms which dumped .99 of an inch of rain on Fayette County Monday.

Court Cable Co. crews restored service by using an emergency gasoline-operated power generator. Service was restored to company customers located east of North Street shortly after 10 p.m., Arnold said.

Washington C.H. Fire Department officials reported a large tree limb was knocked across an electrical service line and into a house at 1206 Columbus Ave. when it was struck by lightning around 10:38 Monday morning.

The power line was reportedly arcing, a fire department report stated, but no fire resulted. Firemen removed the hazard and reported the damaged service line to the Dayton Power and Light Co. No damage to the house was reported.

NO ONE INJURED — Neither driver was injured when two pickup trucks (pictured here) crashed head-on Monday morning at the intersection of Greenfield-Sabina Road and Stafford Road in the community of Buena Vista. Both vehicles were left of center at the point of collision, according to Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Several other traffic mishaps reported

Area youth hurt in three-vehicle collision

A collision involving three cars resulted in minor injuries to a local youth and severe damage to all three vehicles Monday night on N. North Street, according to a Washington C.H. Police Department report.

Sixteen-year-old Albert J. Ingram, 9755 Ohio 41-NW, received multiple bruises when he lost control of the car he was driving and slid broadside into two cars parked in front of 707 N. North St. around 11:45 p.m. He was treated at Fayette County Memorial Hospital where he was taken by a private vehicle and later released.

The youth reportedly told police officers his car began sliding on the wet pavement on North Street at the railroad crossing. According to the police department report, he tried to slow the car by braking, but the brakes locked. The vehicle then slid broadside into one parked car and spun off it on impact colliding with a second car, the report said. The two parked cars belong to Donald and Mary L. Gardner of 707 N. North St. Ingram was cited by police officers for driving at a speed excessive for road conditions.

A local 10-year-old bicyclist was slightly injured Monday morning when he was unable to stop his bike on Oakland Avenue and slid into an automobile, police officers reported.

Eddie Chandler, 10, of 710 W. Market St. was treated at home for a laceration on his hand and abrasions to his forearm, the police department report stated.

The youth told the officers his brakes failed to stop him on the wet pavement around 11:19 a.m. and he collided with a car, driven by Eddie L. Jones, 58, of 741 Dayton Ave.

Two pickup trucks sustained moderate damage when they crashed head-on Monday morning at the intersection of Greenfield-Sabina and Stafford roads, according to Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Sheriff's deputies reported both vehicles were left of center when they crashed around 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Buena Vista community.

Driving west on Greenfield-Sabina both vehicles were left of center at the point of collision, according to Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

Parliament may halt air strike

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Members of Parliament flown in by military aircraft gathered for an emergency session today to consider legislation imposing a settlement in Canada's crippling air traffic controllers strike.

The three-day-old walkout by 2,200 controllers demanding a 12.6 per cent pay increase has all but emptied Canadian skies of commercial flights, has forced the layoff of hundreds of airline workers, is delaying the mails and has ruined the travel plans of thousands of Canadians and visitors.

The strike has driven Air Canada to set up a skeletal route system just south of the border to connect major Canadian cities.

It also caused some major delays at overloaded U.S. airports handling rerouted or newly scheduled flights.

The Liberal government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau appeared to have bipartisan support to rush the bill through Parliament later today.

Leaders of the major opposition party, the Progressive Conservatives, said they did not plan to block speedy passage of the legislation, and a source at the left-leaning New Democratic party, Canada's third strongest, said the NDP also would probably go along with immediate enactment.

The president of the striking Canadian Air Traffic Control Association (CATCA), Jim Livingston, said Monday the union would advise its members to obey any back-to-work legislation. He said it would take 12 to 24 hours to get services back to normal.

Firemen probe garage blaze

Washington C.H. firemen investigated a fire in a garage on Leslie Trace Road Monday morning, according to a fire department report.

Firemen discovered a garage at 509 Leslie Trace Road had caught fire when a child dropped a match in a bucket of gasoline around 11:55 a.m. Garry Merritt, owner of the garage, had already extinguished the fire with a garden hose by the time firemen arrived. The flames caused about $200 damage, the fire department report said. A young boy was allegedly seen by Merritt's son running from the garage shortly after the fire started, fire officials stated.

Medical school plans advanced

GARY, Ind. (AP) — The Lake County Medical Center Development Agency hopes it has taken a major step toward creation of a four-year medical school at Indiana University Northwest here.

Monday the agency said it has received approval to spend $500,000 to expand the medical educational facilities at the Gary campus.

The school, which provides only first and fourth-year medical school programs, now has 20 first year medical students.

Bernard Konrady, agency chairman, said the money will be used to take over and renovate two large buildings previously used by the science department and to renovate two other buildings. Work is expected to start next month and the buildings are expected to be put in use early next year.

KSU confrontation remains in limbo

CLEVELAND (AP) — Construction of the controversial gymnasium annex at Kent State University has been delayed until at least Aug. 17, with a compromise on the issue nowhere in sight.

On that date, U.S. District Court Judge Thomas D. Lambros will hear arguments on whether he should extend his temporary restraining order banning the construction.

Lambros issued the order July 29 to protect the rights of protesters who are seeking to have the site declared a historic landmark.

The construction is planned near the site of the 1970 National Guard shootings that killed four students and wounded nine during an antiwar demonstration.

Lambros said Monday he could not get lawyers for KSU and for the protesting May 4th Coalition to agree on a compromise plan. Lambros had been meeting with attorneys for the two sides since Aug. 1.

Although he continued the ban for nine days, Lambros said, "The state is not required to provide a place for a forum for certain views." He said the protesters' rights of freedom of speech and assembly did not extend to the annex site.

Lambros said he was acting to prevent the state from destroying the site while the historical study was being made.

Attorney William M. Kunstler of New York, one of nine volunteer lawyers for the coalition, said this ruling is the first time a federal judge has agreed to consider as a constitutional issue, the citizens' rights to petition for a redress of grievances.

Speaking of Lambros, Kunstler said, "He's going back to the hallmark of democracy. It's a real challenge. It's a lawyer's dream to have a federal judge entertain such an issue as this."

The KSU trustees only made one concrete offer, proposing the rotation of the annex to the southeast to place it further from the site of the shootings, Kunstler said.

But the university's interim president, Dr. Michael Schwartz, said after Lambros' decision, the university had negotiated in good faith while the coalition had refused to negotiate.

"I want the people to know that the additional cost of moving the annex would run into the millions of dollars."

Rivals are Ford, O'Neill

Energy measure raises political voltage

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever the massive energy bill may do for the country's supplies of fuel and power, it has already raised the political voltage of a high-level golf rivalry.

The rivals are former President

Gerald R. Ford and House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill. They have been close friends and dedicated political and golfing opponents since they served as floor leaders for their respective parties in the House.

As the House went into its final arguments on the bill, a reporter told O'Neill that Ford had said Congress would be working on the legislation until Christmas.

"Where did he say that? At the seventh hole in Vail?" rumbled O'Neill, whose bulldozing through the legislative thickets had brought the immensely ramified bill to the floor in astonishingly short time.

Then O'Neill disclosed he and Ford had agreed on a highly visible match Aug. 17 in Sun Valley, Idaho, as part of a benefit meet for multiple sclerosis research and treatment.

And the speaker said he will be bringing more than his clubs to the meeting with the former president.

"I'll hand him a copy of the House-passed bill," he said.

At least one concerned Texan thinks he knows whom to blame for what he doesn't like about the energy bill.

He wrote his congressman, "I urge you to use your vote and influence to defeat Ed Hock's Energy Committee proposal."

The bill was put together by the House Ad Hoc Committee on Energy.

If you've been tossing at night worrying about how congressmen traveling abroad get by on a $75 a day expense allowance, consider the advice Rep. William Frenzel, R-Minn., gave colleagues studying proposals to require increased disclosure of travel expenses.

First, said Frenzel, you avoid the name hotels and find one for $50 a day.

"That leaves $25 for meals and cab fare," he said. "In Europe you get breakfast — juice and a roll — with your room. For dinner you go to the ambassador's reception and eat canapes. So what you do is spend $25 on cab fare and skip lunch."

The Commission on Administrative

Review also is looking into the operation of the House barber shops. One member, spotting a typographical error in a document, snickered, "What's the barber shop?"

"That's the guy I get," said Rep. Lloyd Meeds, D-Wash., "the Yankee clipper."

Defenders of the bicycle as a means of transportation got an amendment into the energy bill for a study by the Transportation Department of the energy efficiency of bicycles and of obstacles to their greater use.

Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., suggested the voters might regard this "in much the same manner as federal studies of Frisbees and the mating calls of toads."

But the proponents were dead serious.

Rep. George E. Brown, D-Calif.,

cited a study he said showed an automobile would have to get 100 miles to the gallon to be as efficient as a bicycle and that a switch to bicycles for only 6 per cent of short trips would save 827 million gallons of gasoline a year.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., who pedals daily to the Capitol, called for protected lanes and better parking facilities — "We could work it out so one could park in front of the Rayburn (House Office) Building on an equal basis with a limousine."

Another congressional bicycle commuter, Rep. Edward W. Pattison, D-N.Y., agreed. He said he had no trouble parking his bike at the White House, but couldn't find parking space at a department store.

The danger he worries about when riding his bicycle, Pattison said, is breathing "the air caused by automobiles other people are driving."

Blumenthal talks on energy proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A second member of President Carter's Cabinet is going before a skeptical Senate Finance Committee to answer questions about the administration's energy proposals.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael

Blumenthal is appearing today before the panel, which is holding hearings on the Carter energy plan even though Congress is on a month's recess.

James Schlesinger, sworn in last week as the first head of the new Department of Energy, defended

Carter's program before the committee on Monday and repeated the administration's request for higher gasoline taxes.

Outlining the legislation as it cleared the House last week, Schlesinger lobbied to have the committee restore several provisions deleted in the House.

The energy secretary asked the panel to put back into the bill a provision giving the President stand-by authority to raise the gasoline tax by as much as 50 cents a gallon in five-cent yearly increments.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., committee chairman, said he thought the 50-cent tax proposal had no chance.

Other committee members objected to a plan to give back money raised by the proposed tax in the form of rebates.

Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, said the proposal, to return money to drivers as well as non-drivers, was "a welfare program... a nightmare."

The House killed the standby gasoline tax proposal, along with moves to increase the federal gasoline tax by four and five cents over its present four cents a gallon.

Schlesinger said he also wants the tax on "gas guzzler" autos tightened to require better gas mileage and asked that exemptions to the industrial oil and gas use tax be cut.

But committee members seemed to indicate that they favor more basic alterations to the House version of the bill.

Long, whose state is rich in petroleum, said he favors adding broad incentives to encourage more energy production. Most of the other committee members agreed.

10:45 a.m. — Transported an accident victim from Rose Avenue to the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room.

County safe place to raise family, prosecutor explains

Even though felonious crimes have increased slightly over the past few years, Fayette County is still one of the safest places in the state to raise a family.

That was the opinion of Fayette County Prosecuting Attorney James A. Kiger who was the guest speaker at the regular weekly dinner meeting Monday night of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club in the Terrace Lounge.

According to Kiger, his office serves as the legal counsel for all governmental agencies in the county, as well as prosecuting criminal cases. To accomplish this large task, the office is divided into a criminal and a civil branch.

The county prosecutor blamed the upturn in crime on a lack of law enforcement agents, and on a system that has criminals "back on the street faster than they can be put away."

Kiger also stated that he as well as other law enforcement officers feel that there were numerous unreported crimes especially in the area of sexual assaults. He said that the general public needs to get involved and become aware of what goes on around them. "The public can't sit by if they know of felonious crimes," he said.

During the regular meeting, club president Tom Mossbarger announced that the family picnic will be held Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Armbrust. Each family is asked to bring a covered dish, drinks, table service, lawn chairs and tables.

The program for Monday's meeting was arranged by Ken Hughes.

John fires two hitter

Dodgers stop Reds 4-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers had just shut out the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 on Tommy John's two-hitter to move 12½ games in front in the National League West, and Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson commented:

"I'm not dead until they bury me, but I have a terrible feeling they're about ready to."

The two-time world champion Reds had entered the four-game series with the hopes of scoring a sweep and getting back into the West Division pennant race.

But the 34-year-old John, who has made a career of beating the Reds, not only shut them out; he also slugged his first home run in nine years.

"Hitting the home run was a big thrill, no question about that," said John, who has an 8-1 career record against Cincinnati. "But to shut down the Reds like that rates even a bigger thrill. To shut them out means I've done a great job of pitching."

The victory ended a four-game losing streak for the Dodgers.

John, 13-4, hurled his second shutout of the season and the 32nd of his career while pitching his seventh straight victory. He allowed only a second-inning single by George Foster and a third-inning double by Ken Griffey. He retired the final 16 Reds in order.

"He's either the best they've got or he's tricking us," said Anderson. "There was no pressure on us tonight. Tommy John just stuck it to us. He pitched a great game."

John homered in the third off loser Paul Moskauer, 2-3, and one out later, Bill Russell drilled a double down the left-field line.

Third baseman Pete Rose disputed whether the ball was fair, arguing so intently with umpire John McSherry that he was thrown out of the game. Anderson also was ejected.

When play resumed, Reggie Smith shot a line drive into the left-field pavilion for his 20th home run of the season and a 3-0 Los Angeles lead.

"If there was any time for a kid to make a bad pitch, that was it," said Smith. "Everybody was arguing with the umpire so all the pitcher could do was go over to the bench and sit down."

The Dodgers added a fourth run in the sixth inning when Ron Cey singled. With two out, Rick Monday singled him home.

Real or not?

Dissension in Reds clubhouse

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Bench, denying reports of trouble between the Cincinnati Reds and their press corps, calls it a case of clubhouse jousting being taken too seriously.

"Sure there was some yelling in the clubhouse, but that goes on all the time," Bench said Monday, reacting to an Associated Press story that stated the world champions have been feuding with writers.

"No one takes it seriously," Bench told The Cincinnati Enquirer.

Annoyed over critical stories, Bench, backup catcher Bill Plummer and Dave Concepcion had words with reporters last week.

Bench and Plummer labeled one writer "a cheap shot artist" after reading a story pinned up on the clubhouse bulletin board.

They were unhappy with recent stories written by Hal McCoy of the Dayton Daily News. McCoy contends the Reds' collapse this season is due to complacency, poor attitude and blatant disregard of curfews.

Concepcion fumed over a newspaper story he felt branded him as a scapegoat in a recent loss. Concepcion, who is bidding for the all time record for fewest errors by a shortstop, booted a double play ball that allowed the Chicago Cubs to win in the ninth inning.

"Everyone gets mad at something that is written sometime," said Bench. "Davey got mad. If he never got mad he'd wind up being a whiping boy."

Slugging sensation George Foster also got in the act, saying he would not talk anymore with "negative writers." In recent weeks he has walked away on three occasions from at least one writer at the first question. Foster denied Monday in Los Angeles that he had ever snubbed any writer.

Reds captain Pete Rose, after hearing Bench take issue with McCoy's column, interjected: "Hal is right. The only thing this team leads the league in is sustans." One reporter described the exchange as "a tense moment."

Another said Rose meant it light-heartedly.

McCoy said Bench "was mostly kidding."

Rose later said, "Five years ago we had some rules. There was no golf, tennis, or swimming on game days. It's different now. The only rule we have says I'm not allowed to bring my boy into the clubhouse anymore," referring to a new rule banning family members from the dressing room.

"I told the truth. I was honest," said Rose.

Bench said Monday, "What was wrong with getting a sustan the last two years when we won the world championship?"

McCoy, in a story for The Washington Star Tuesday, quoted Manager Sparky Anderson as saying "The worst thing to me is to see a fine, fine group of baseball players like this go down the drain. It's a shame. I heard a couple of them the other day say 'the hell with it.'"

Anderson waved off Monday's wire service story, saying the author "must be the world's greatest dreamer."

McCoy quoted Joe Morgan as saying "Our togetherness is gone. This is no rap at the new guys, but there are too many strange faces around here. Some guys may quit this season, but I plan to grind it out. If nothing else, for myself. I won't be one of the rats deserting the ship."

Harrah-Wills-Hargrove: Triple play

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

"It was just a perfect triple play ball," said Toby Harrah.

So the Rangers' third baseman grabbed Manny Sanguillen's grounder, stepped on third and fired to Bump Wills at second. Wills then flipped the ball to Mike Hargrove at first for the first triple play in Texas' six-year history as the Rangers swept two games from Oakland 5-2 and 3-0 Monday night.

The triple play came in the nightcap and helped Roger Moret post his second victory without a loss this season. Moret hurled hitless ball for 62-3 innings before Jim Tyrone singled to center.

Harrah had an otherwise harrowing night. He was involved in a fistfight with Oakland pitcher Jim Umberger, a former Ranger, in the first game and was ejected.

Blyleven threw a five-hitter in the first contest. Dave May and Claudell Washington each homered for the Rangers' offense in the second game.

The sweep gave Texas 25 triumphs in its last 31 games and moved the Rangers to within 2½ games of first-place Chicago in the AL West.

Elsewhere in the American League, California took a pair from Kansas City, winning the opener 6-4 and taking the nightcap 7-2. Chicago nipped Seattle 5-4. Baltimore defeated Cleveland 6-3 and Detroit topped Milwaukee 6-1.

Angels 6-7, Royals 4-2

The Angels' doubleheader sweep broke a five-game Kansas City victory streak and gave the Angels a six-game winning skein, their longest of the season. California also reached the .500 mark.

Bobby Bonds hit his 27th homer and sixth in seven games in the nightcap. Nolan Ryan won his 16th game, tops in the majors, in the opener and Gil Flores collected three doubles to help the Angels sweep.

Martinez, 10-6, twice left the bases loaded in pitching 41-3 innings of relief.

Larvell Blanks had five hits, including three doubles, in the contest, which saw Baltimore move within three games of idle Boston in the AL East.

Tigers 6, Brewers 1

Jason Thompson's 19th home run, a long blast off the facing of the third deck in Tigers' Stadium, led the Detroit victory. The Tigers scored five times in the second inning, with a two-run single by Rusty Staub the key hit.

Jim Crawford, 4-4, started his first game of the season and scattered 10 hits before being relieved in the eighth by Steve Foucault.

Motorcycle races slated at Dayton

Over 100 top riders from 21 states and Canada will mount their racing motorcycles Friday night, at the Montgomery County Fairgrounds in Dayton as they compete for the regional championship and a $4,000 purse during the seventh Annual AMA Regional Motorcycle Championships sponsored by the Old Time Newsies for Charity.

This is the rescheduling for the race that was rained out at the fairgrounds on June 18. All rain checks from tickets on the original race will be valid for this race. Races begin at 8 p.m. Time trials begin at 6 p.m.

15 year-old Jack II

New Nicklaus arriving on scene

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Pretty Barbara Nicklaus fastened herself into the seat of the transcontinental jet flying her from her Florida home to the Pacific Coast and talked enthusiastically about her two golfing men.

"We're all excited about young Jackie," she said, referring to the eldest of the Nicklaus brood—15 year-old Jack II. "You know, he will be trying to qualify for the National Amateur at San Jose next Monday."

It's a big week ahead for the Nicklauses and Barbara now finds herself with a double rooting interest.

Jack, the world's best golfer, will be going for his fifth PGA championship and another major golfing crown at Pebble Beach, starting Thursday.

Then—win, lose or draw—he and Barbara will sweat out Jackie's qualifying efforts at San Jose.

"I was sitting in the clubhouse watching Jack and Jackie come up to the 18th fairway at Muirfield," Barbara said, referring to Jack's hand-fashioned course in Columbus, Ohio. "And I had to smile. Jackie pointed to Jack's ball and said, 'Pop your're away.'"

A stringy six-footer, taller than his dad, Jackie is considered an outstanding prospect. It appears we may be reading Jack Nicklaus headlines for the next 20 years.

When he was playing in the British Open at Turnberry, Scotland, a month ago, the elder Nicklaus became so interested in talking about his son's golfing proclivities that he subordinated his own.

That didn't keep him from shooting final rounds of 65-66 in the fierce stretch duel with the ultimate tournament winner, Tom Watson.

Young Jackie, like his father, is a golfing protege. A fine, smooth striker of the ball, he already is battling championship courses with rounds in the low 70s.

If his present enthusiasm and determination continue, he will, the experts insist, be another champion.

"We never tried to push Jackie, or any of the other children, into golf," Barbara said. "In fact, if anything, both Jack and I bent over backwards for fear that any of them might feel we were putting undue pressure on them."

Besides Jackie, the Nicklaus offspring include Steve, 14; Nancy Jean, 12; Gary (named for Gary Player) 8; and Michael, 4. All show aptitude in sports—baseball, basketball and tennis. Nancy Jean is a budding gymnast.

Jack II has been a standout in both basketball and tennis but he currently is wrapped up completely in golf.

Jack, the pappa bear, was beating the best men players in Ohio when he was 16. He won the first of his two national amateur crowns at age 19 and was 22, a tour rookie, when he beat Arnold Palmer in a playoff at Oakmont, Pa., for the U.S. Open crown in 1962.

It was this head-to-head victory that faded out the Palmer era and ushered in the Nicklaus era of golf.

The elder Jack has gone on to win more than $3 million in official prize money, collect 63 tour victories and 16 major championships—more than any man who ever lived.

He continues to rewrite the record book and there is no indication that at age 37 he is ready to yield his mantle to anyone else—even to the 27-year-old Tom Watson, who has beaten him this year in both the Masters and British Open.

A victory at Pebble Beach this week would put him even with the great Walter Hagen in PGA titles: five. Then he could go after a record five U.S. Opens (Willie Anderson, Bob Jones and Ben Hogan had four each), and add to his five Masters and two British Opens.

By that time there should be another slugging ready to take over—Jack Nicklaus II.

Hall of Fame rites held

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — "Words almost fail here," Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said as he introduced Ernie Banks to an overflowing throng that witnessed induction ceremonies for the six newest members of baseball's Hall of Fame.

"They called him 'Mr. Cub,'" Kuhn said.

No other introduction was necessary on Monday for the former Chicago Cubs infielder who blasted 512 home runs in his 19-year major league career.

"We got the setting—sunshine, fresh air, the team behind us. So let's play two," Banks said, eliciting a roar of approval from the crowd which included some 600 Cubs' fans who had come to this upstate New York village in the Adirondack Mountains.

They remembered a Babe Ruth home run in Yankee Stadium, a Jackie Robinson steal of home, a Sandy Koufax nohitter. Now it was Ernie Banks entering the Hall of Fame.

"He had the movements of a great watch," Judy Johnson, a Hall of Famer himself, said about Banks. "You set it today and it keeps perfect time. 'Banks was one of the best baseball competitors we've ever had. I have never heard any bad remarks about him. He was and is a gentleman.'"

The crowd in the tree-shaded park agreed. One fan held up a sign proclaiming "America Loves Ernie Banks."

Also receiving plaques at the dedication ceremonies were Al Lopez, Joe Sewell, Amos Rusie, Martin Dihigo and John Henry "Pop" Lloyd, swelling the Hall's membership to 163. Rusie, Dihigo and Lloyd were honored posthumously.

Lopez, who caught more major league games than anyone, was honored for his managerial skills. In the 16 years he managed the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, his teams won two American League pennants and finished second 10 times.

Dihigo is the first Cuban to be enshrined in the Hall. Accepting his plaque was his cousin, Jose Valdivielso, a former pitcher with the Washington Senators. Two men unfurled a Cuban flag when Valdivielso approached the podium.

John Amos Rusie accepted for his uncle and James Ursury of Atlantic City, N.J., where a baseball field is named for Lloyd, accepted for the former Negro League infielder.

In the 35th annual Hall of Fame exhibition game played at Doubleday Field, built on the site where the first baseball game was reportedly played, the Minnesota Twins used home runs by Terry Bulling, Lyman Bostock and Bob Gorinski and three innings of no-hit pitching by Gary Serun to defeat the Philadelphia Phillies 8-5.

Before the game, broadcaster Mel Allen introduced members of the Hall of Fame who had returned to

Redskins topple Cleveland Browns

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mark Moseley redeemed himself and Joe Theismann made Coach George Allen sit up and take notice Monday night as they led the Washington Redskins to a come-from-behind 16-14 National Football League preseason victory over the Cleveland Browns.

Moseley, a six-year veteran, missed a conversion try and two field goal attempts before connecting on a 29-yarder with just 17 seconds remaining in the game.

Theismann, the No. 2 quarterback behind Billy Kilmer, directed the Redskins on the winning drive after Browns' rookie punter Greg Coleman put Washington on its six-yard line.

Theismann, starting his fourth season with Washington, connected on 16 of 24 pass attempts for 185 yards, including a seven-yard touchdown toss to Jean Fugett, after relieving Kilmer in the second period.

"It was a good first game for us," Allen said happily. "Anytime you come from behind to win it's a good win. And I was glad to see Moseley make the winning field goal. He had a tough night, but then he came through. And Joe (Theismann) did a good job."

Cleveland Coach Forrest Gregg was furious over his team's performance, kicking the Indians' bat rack and shouting an expletive as he walked through the dugout to the Browns' dressing room after the game.

"I didn't like anything about the game," he said stormily. "No offense, no defense, no pass rush...nothing. We had field position plenty of times, but didn't do anything with it. They just took the ball and stuffed it down our throats."

Reminded the Browns were ahead 14-13 until Moseley's heroic boot, Gregg muttered, "That was a minor miracle. It doesn't count how long you're ahead. It only counts who's ahead at the end."

London slow pitch tourney slated

A men's Class "C" Slow Pitch Softball Tournament will be held in London Aug. 20 and 21.

The A.S.A. sanctioned double elimination will feature trophies for the top four teams, a most valuable player and leading home run hitter. Entry fee is $55.

Drawing will be held at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 18 at the Eagle's Lodge in London. For further information call Harvey Buchanan, 852-0066; Jim Conn, 852-0818; Bob Kieg, 878-2676 or Carl Clark, 279-7142.

Bob Bialik cut

by Cincy Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Rookie punter Bob Bialik, a 10th round draft choice, became the Cincinnati Bengals first cut of training camp Monday.

Bialik, from Hillsdale (Mich.) College, was released on waivers. He punted six times for a 28 yard average in the Bengals 23-20 National Football League preseason game loss to the Green Bay Packers Saturday night.

The move left the Bengals with 55 players. The roster has to be cut to 52 by Aug. 30.

Ohio Perspective

Despite differences, Rhodes, Demos cooperate on problems

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite their political differences, Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes and the veto-proof Democratic legislature have cooperated this year on some problems.

The biggest was a balanced, no-new-taxes budget for the 1977-1979 biennium, with Rhodes providing the "working" document and the legislature making a few priority shifts but leaving it otherwise pretty much intact.

Rhodes, in his annual "state of the state" speech to a joint session Jan. 12, called for 14 specific measures. Only one—a bill to crack down on cigarette bootlegging—was enacted, and that was under Democratic sponsorship.

Similarly, several other gubernatorial proposals found their way into law, after being amended all or in part into Democratic measures.

Two programs espoused by both the governor and Democrats have passed the House and are pending in the Senate where they could be further considered after the legislature's return Sept. 19.

One sets up a system to review Ohio's proliferation of agencies and commissions—with an eye toward weeding out unneeded bureaucracy—and the other gives tax breaks to industries which shift from scarce natural gas to alternate fuels.

The biggest disappointment of the administration, says Craig Zimpher, legislative liaison for the governor, has been lack of progress on a four-bill package to spur industrial development in blighted areas. Those measures remain at the hearing stage, and another Rhodes proposal, to aid port development, is under study in a House subcommittee.

Other administration bills, either not yet heard or given only cursory review, would deny pensions to public employees convicted of crimes, strengthen state securities laws, allow county prosecutors to go after consumer fraud, and establish a division of credit unions in the commerce department.

Among the 14 proposals also were those calling for married Ohioans to receive joint filing credits under the state income tax, and requiring bills introduced in the legislature to be accompanied by fiscal impact statements. They found their way into majority Democrats' budget language bill.

In his Jan. 12 speech, Rhodes called for modernization of bureau of motor vehicle laws "by computerizing its operations and distributing license plates in a manner more convenient to Ohio's drivers." In 1979, drivers will be able to buy them by mail, as a result of a new law.

Rhodes called for programs to strengthen services to Ohio senior citizens. Two bills emerged from the House and went to the Senate, although not specifically at Rhodes' request.

One would give Ohioans 65 and over, and the disabled, 25 per cent discounts on winter heating bills, while the other would give statutory sanction to a program under which senior citizens get discounts on merchandise from participating merchants, with their "Golden Buckeye" cards.

Jaycees complete project for relocation

Little League field dismantled

Members of the Washington C.H. Jaycee chapter have completed the dismantling of the Little League baseball facilities at Armbrust Field.

The Jaycees completed the dismantling of dugouts, backstops and fences at the local field Sunday in preparation for relocation to the Washington C.H. Rotary Club's new Little League complex on Lewis Street.

The Rotary Club has acquired a five-acre tract of land on Lewis Street for the consolidation of the Little League diamonds from Wilson and Armbrust fields. The Rotary Club hopes to complete the $20,000 consolidation project by spring.

The local Jaycees have volunteered manpower for completion of the project and members will be constructing new dugouts at the Lewis Street location at a later date.

Jaycees participating in Sunday's project at Armbrust Field were Dan Armbrust, Don Wilson, Bob Caughron, John Gault, Clem Edwards, Gary Johnson, Leroy Farris, Joe Burbage, David DaRif and project chairman Dale L. Butler.

Assisting the Jaycees were Frank Terrell, Mike Hadden and Jerry Gault. Equipment for the project was provided by Armbrust Concrete Products, Inc.

Davidson mum about blaze

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Singer John Davidson has returned to the stage for the first time since his appearance at a Kentucky supper club where a fire killed 164 persons. But he refuses to discuss the disaster and walked out of a recent interview when the subject came up.

Davidson appears confident and relaxed on stage here. In a backstage interview, however, the popular performer's open, laughing stage manner turned to tight-lipped annoyance when a reporter casually asked how his life had been affected by the May 28 blaze at the Beverly Hills Supper Club in Southgate, Ky.

"I just would rather not even mention the fire, because I just don't want to talk about the fire," he said. "So many people lost their lives in it. It was a great tragedy. There's no reason to rake it over. Everybody's talked about the fire. It's all over. I don't want to talk about the fire."

Davidson was asked in the weekend interview if he was nervous about playing again in a large showroom such as the one at the Hilton Hotel here, where as many as 1,100 persons can dine, drink and watch the shows. But he said he didn't want to become involved in questions about room capacities because of pending lawsuits.

"It really gets into a legal matter," Davidson said. "I've been interviewed by Kentucky state investigators. If I say things about the fire...I can't...It's just a ticklish area because it was a great tragedy. There've been so many lawsuits on both sides that I'd rather not be a part of because I was simply the entertainer there."

Davidson then stood up, said, "I'm sorry, let's all do something else," and abruptly ended the interview, refusing to talk about anything, even his new act.

The fire at the suburban Cincinnati night spot is being investigated by a Kentucky committee headed by the state police commissioner. A congressional hearing is planned for October in Cincinnati. About two dozen suits have been filed in Kentucky seeking a total of $750 million in damages.

Davidson's act was designed by his new music director, Tom Schell, who replaces Douglas Herro, killed in the fire after a 4½-year association with Davidson. The act relies heavily on combining clever arrangements, contemporary ballads and Davidson's energy.

The 35-year-old Ohio native complained after the show here that he had received but one standing ovation, instead of the three he had been getting during previous shows. But the audience was enthusiastic.

"We think he's the greatest there is," said a Georgia man sitting in the front of the showroom.

Davidson's career has covered a series of forgettable movies and television shows. He has had no hit records. But he appears regularly on the "Tonight Show" and "Hollywood Squares." And like that fateful night in Southgate, Davidson continues to pack nightclubs with adoring fans.

Food stamp fraud rises

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Food stamp fraud convictions were up 120 per cent during April, May and June, as compared to the first three months of the year, the Ohio Department of Public Welfare said.

All but 10 of the 88 convictions were for failure to report some type of income. Seven cases involved giving false information about household size. One involved presenting fraudulent rent receipts and one was for reported theft.

A breakdown of the convictions by county shows: Hamilton, 27; Cuyahoga, 23; Columbiana, 10; Lorain, six; Montgomery, four; Clark and Pickaway, three each; Lake and Muskingum, two each; Belmont, Greene, Hancock, Highland, Licking, Lucas, Perry, and Sandusky, one each.

The convictions resulted in 39 jail sentences, of which 25 were partially or totally suspended in restitution was made. Also, 24 persons were given probation and ordered to make restitution, 15 were ordered to make full restitution only, and six were placed on probation. Four persons are awaiting sentencing.

Showers and thundershowers faded out across Ohio early today, but warm, humid air continues to cover the state. The unstable air was expected to produce some more showers.

Cloudiness was variable over the state during the night and some patches of fog formed early today.

Some showers or thundershowers were expected to spread into southwestern Ohio this morning and thundershowers were forecast over most sections of the state this afternoon and tonight. Highs today were to reach the 80s in most sections.

A slow-moving cold front extending from western New York to southern Michigan early today was expected to become nearly stationary across Lake Erie today.

Missing nuclear material probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional staff investigator says one intelligence agency "believes there was a diversion" of nuclear material from a power plant, although officials from two agencies remain publicly confident that none of the missing 8,000 pounds of weapons-grade material was stolen.

The officials testified Monday before a House Commerce subcommittee looking into the way the federal government safeguards nuclear materials at both government and private plants.

"We are really confident that no radioactive materials have ever been gotten out of those plants," said Robert W. Fri, acting administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration. But he added this was not "a 100 per cent certainty."

Fri and Lee V. Gossick, executive operations director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said processing problems, biased measurements or bookkeeping errors may account for the inability to trace the missing weapons-grade plutonium and uranium.

But after the two officials testified, a subcommittee investigator said the congressmen earlier had received testimony indicating some of the nuclear material may have been stolen.

"We have information that an intelligence agency believes there was a diversion (of nuclear material)," said the subcommittee's chief investigator, Michael Ward. He did not elaborate nor identify the agency.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the subcommittee, said the questions about the missing nuclear material "tend to militate against my peace of mind."

"Really good accounting would say you would watch this process to see if you came out with what you put in," the chairman said.

Dingell convened the hearing after the government acknowledged last Thursday that nearly 3,400 pounds of plutonium and 4,800 pounds of enriched uranium can't be accounted for.
